

Casa Concepts, the Algarve-based kitchen and bathroom furniture specialists, have launched into 2005 offering the latest ranges from the much-acclaimed Edwin Loxley bespoke manufacturers in UK

In just six years, Edwin Loxley have fast-become recognized as designers of stylishly innovative kitchen, bathroom and home study furniture, and have raised the quality end of the market to new heights. This flair for design quality was recognized in 2003 when Loxley's founder, Joe Cavani, was awarded Designer of the Year by one of industry's most respected trade publications.

Expert knowledge, based on years of experience with renowned furniture manufacturers, combined with strong beliefs on what a bespoke service should offer, led Joe Cavani to found Edwin Loxley. He explains the philosophy that has brought his company such accolades in the UK. "A good designer should explore all the materials available, and continually question the way things are produced", he says. "Just because others at the top of the market make their furniture in a certain way, it doesn't necessarily mean it's the best way."

*Text: Troy Redwood
Photos: Edwin Loxley*

"As a bespoke manufacturer I also believe that you should live up to those expectations fully - which means not only producing furniture precisely tailored to suit individual tastes and requirements, but also to the architectural and aesthetic aspects of the property. That's why there are no standard designs or cabinet sizes at Edwin Loxley."

This approach, combined with a team of highly-skilled craftsmen and shrewd management has led to this Nottingham-based company rapidly expanding their dealer network to 26 showrooms. Now, Casa Concepts is set to become one of the foremost, bringing stylish new options for those seeking to improve their Algarve homes.

Casa Concepts has been established in the Algarve for three years, and Managing Director David Foreman comments "Our clients aren't just looking for a supplier, but an expert relationship between dealer and manufacturer that allows them to achieve the perfect results. Working with Edwin Loxley fulfils these criteria superbly: they satisfy - and in most cases exceed - the expectations of our most discerning clients, whether their tastes are traditional or contemporary."

Demand for Edwin Loxley furniture now sees Casa Concepts traveling all over the Algarve with orders coming from Lagos in the west to beyond the Spanish border. A visit to their showroom in Almancil will leave you in no doubt as to why demand is so high. Solid timbers, stunning paint finishes and beautiful granites combine with exquisite details such as dovetail-jointed solid wood drawer boxes that simply glide to a close with the lightest of touches, to create furniture fit for a lifetime's use.

Casa Concepts will soon be unveiling extended showroom premises, with several new displays demonstrating the innovative style, quality and versatility of Edwin Loxley. ■

Above and opposite
Contemporary style in a striking combination of maple and walnut.

Above - left and right
Some of the many exquisite details that feature in Edwin Loxley's furniture ranges.

Above
Traditional bespoke furniture in a paint and natural pippy oak finish, from the Charterhouse range.

Further information

Casa Concepts on +351 289 395 775
or email info@casa-concepts.com